

Special Issue on “Governance and Accounting Regulation”

Call for Papers

Every three years, Siena is host to an international forum on emerging issues in Accounting & Regulation, together with related theoretical developments and empirical analysis. The Seventh International Workshop on Accounting & Regulation takes place in July 2016, organised by the Department of Business and Law (University of Siena) in collaboration with the European Institute of Advanced Studies in Management (EIASM).

The Workshop deals with a wide range of issues including compliance and enforcement, the consequences for markets and institutions, the implications for corporate governance, the effects of regulation on financial disclosure behaviour, and the structures and processes of law making and accounting standard setting in different social and political settings.

Following the success of the last call for submissions to the Journal of Management and Governance, on Accounting & Regulation, a new Special Issue is now planned with the specific aim of exploring new developments within the context of Governance and Accounting Regulation. The Journal of Management and Governance encourages the submission of both theoretical and empirical papers on this theme.

Full papers should be submitted to the Editor of the Journal of Management and Governance, Roberto Di Pietra at dipietra@unisi.it

The deadline for this call is January 31, 2017.
