

Accounting Information Systems for non-financial communication.

The objective of the track is to bring together researchers from all disciplines related to Accounting and Management Information Systems (AIS) in order to debate on the relationship between accounting and information technology (ICT). The track is interested in research works that investigate the links between information technology and financial/non financial communication (i.e. measuring, accounting, disclosing, reporting, controlling, auditing, etc.) and related disciplines. In fact, nowadays non financial communication – related to environment, human resources, ethics, risks, equality – and its integration with other sources/types of data is a topic of growing interest.

The track particularly aims to stimulate the debate and the research concerning the interaction between digital and smart technologies and accounting information systems, in order to investigate the relationship between ICT and innovation in the field of non financial communication and its integration with financial accounting. It aims to encourage studies that highlight how digital, smart and social technologies may improve non financial communication, its connectivity and integration with pre-existent subsystems.

The objective is to bring together researchers from all scientific fields related to Accounting Information Systems (AIS) for a high level interaction, discussion, and exchange of fruitful ideas in the setting of the Italian AIS (ItAIS).

The following Journal support AIS track with special issues and fast track for publication (to be confirmed):

- The International Journal of Digital Accounting Research,
- Management Control.
- International Journal of Digital Culture and Electronic Tourism.

This track is supported by the Interest Study Group entitled “Non-financial communication and integrated information models” of Italian Academy of Accounting and Business Administration (SIDREA).
